MISSING IOWA BOY VICTIM ON PEAK?

Del Cutler to Have Been Youth Mountain Trail

GAVE NAME AS DEL BRENNAN

Sister Here and Body Will Probably Be Exhumed From Evergreen Cemetery

A youth who died under mysterious circumstances at St. Francis hospital May 8 last, giving his name as Del Brennan, was Del Cutler, son of a prominent family of Waterloo, Ia., according to Mrs. Richard Bacon, a sister whose home is in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mrs. Bacon is so positive that the young man who was buried here in an unmarked grave, and without his identity being known, was her brother, that it is now probable that the body will be exhumed and taken to Waterloo for interment.

Mrs. Bacon's husband is expected to reach Colorado Springs today, and it is believed that he will identify the body as that of his young brother-in-law, Del Cutler. The victim of a mysterious death on the slopes of Pike's peak, last May, had a scar over his right eye, and relatives of young Cutler say he too, carried a similar scar, received when he was working in a machine shop.

Description identical.
As further proof of identity, Cutler's relatives have described his general appearance, and the clothing he wore when he left his home in Iowa a few days before he died here, and the description tallies in every detail.

Unusual circumstances surrounded young Cutler's death. When the authorities were unable to establish his identity, the body was buried in an unmarked grave. At one time, the hospital, the lad said his name was Brennan, but when he was dying he said that at the hospital that it was Cutler.

Mrs. I. D. Dillenbeck of Nob Hill, an intimate friend of the Cutler family, is positive that young Cutler did not commit suicide by drinking poison on the mountainside. She has maintained it all along that he was the victim of an evil play, and that a valuable find, a gold watch, money and other personal effects were stolen and that an attempt was made to kill the young man with poison. So positive is Mrs. Dil-lenbeck in her theory that she has sought the sheriff's office, as well as the police department of Denver and other cities, to investigate the case.

Early in May a youth about 20 years

SENATE'S OLD-ST MEMBER IS DEAD

William Pierce Frye Passes Away After 40 Years' Service in Congress

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 8.—The state of Maine lost its senior United States senator and almost lifelong faithful servant when William Pierce Frye died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Helen White here. At his headquarters were Mrs. White and his other daughters, Mrs. Alice Bluffs, who also lives in Lewiston. Although he had suffered for a long time, death came suddenly.

Forced by the condition of his health to resign his position as president pro tem of the senate at the beginning of the present special session, Frye soon afterward made his last journey to the city which always had been his home. For several weeks his condition was not considered necessarily dangerous. Up to last week he rested in comparative comfort, spending much of his time in reading or in involving some member of his family to him.

Last week the senator's illness took a serious turn, but again he rallied and his weak his physicians expressed a hope that he might recover. As late as 3:15 this afternoon he appeared to be in a comfortable position. Shortly afterward it was seen that he was suffering a general breakdown due to age and his extremely arduous career, is ascribed by physicians as the cause of death. Funeral arrangements had not been completed tonight.

News Reaches Senate Informally.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—News of Frye's death reached the senate informally this afternoon, while Administrator McPherson was being sworn in lative session of Monday by reason of

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENS WEST

RAILROADS TO PRESENT
UNDIVIDED FRONT

Officials Claim Demands of Shopmen are Not of All Reason

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Railroad officials in Chicago today began arranging conferences to discuss the strike that is said to threaten all western lines, with the purpose of presenting an undivided front if action is taken by employees.

Officials of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, denied the strike rumors and said their employees had made no demands. Other lines admitted that the possibility of a strike was being discussed in informal conferences among officials.

According to reports in circulation among railroad men, all the western lines have been sent a series of demands from the shop workers, the principal items of which follow:

Principal Demands.
Physical examination and personal record blank requirements to be discontinued.

A flat increase of 15 per cent in wages.

An eight-hour day.
Three and one-half for service after 5 p. m. and double time after midnight.

One apprentice to be employed for every five mechanics and this ratio to be maintained.

Apprentices not to work overtime.

Employees laid off on account of a reduction in force to be reemployed in the order they have been laid off.

Place work premium system to be abolished.

The management of the Southern Pacific railroad has issued a circular pointing out that the demands would mean an additional outlay for that company alone of $2,798,000 each year.

It is set forth in the circular that in the last five years the wages of the shop craft have been increased on the average 12 1/2 per cent, and in some instances as high as 30 per cent.

Pronounced Situation Serious.

Julius Kruttschnitt, vice president of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railways today said:

"The situation is very serious. We have been asked to deal with what appears to be an association of all the shop workers in regard to the demands for higher wages and a better working conditions that would mean an outlay of $7,000,000 to the Harriman roads. I am not in a position to forecast whether a general strike will be called but it is certain we do not feel that a demand for increased pay is justifiable at this time."

"These railroads have reached a point where they cannot afford to pay more money to their workers and if a strike is to come I know of no better time than the present," said another railroad official.

LONG PRISON SENTENCE FOR HOT DIP MEN

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 8.—Joseph Copeland and Edwin Block, holdup men who by bold methods have been terrorizing citizens here for a fortnight, were each sentenced today to 15 years in prison. Both pleaded guilty to seven holdups and Copeland to two charges of shooting with intent to do bodily harm. The sentences are among the heaviest meted out by a police court here in years.

Aged Woman Lecturer Held on a Charge of Kidnaping Young Girl

DENVER, Aug. 8.—Traced from Denver to Lamar and then to Las Animas and Leadville and back to Las Animas, Mrs. Letitia White Owen, a lecturer in the employ of the American Girls and Boys league, under indictment at Washington D. C. for alleged abduction of Bernadette Harris, aged 15, was arrested today at Las Animas under instructions from Chief of Police Armstrong.

The girl who has been traveling with her under the name of Miss B. F.
White, also is in custody and the couple will be held until an officer can reach Las Animas from Washington to take charge of them.

Mrs. Owen, who is 60 years old, induced James H. Harris, father of the girl, to allow his daughter to accompany her on a trip to Boston last summer. She represented she was going there to give a series of lectures and would return home with the child as soon as she finished.

Instead of returning to Washington, however, Mrs. Owen started west from Boston taking the girl with her. The girl wrote her parents regularly until the first of the year when her letters stopped. Her father wrote Mrs. Owen, demanding the return of his daughter and is said to have received a reply to the effect that he would have to "go some" to get her.

He appealed to the police and was referred to the United States district attorney who caused the indictment of Mrs. Owen, a bench warrant was issued for her and placed in the hands of Chief of Police Sylvester of Washington who communicated with Chief Armstrong and asked that Mrs. Owen and her charge be apprehended.

JOHN W. GATES, THE NOTED MILLIONAIRE PLUNGER, AND HIS FAMILY.

Charles G. Gates, Son of the Picturesque Capitalist.

John W. Gates Ends Long Struggle for Life; Dies at Paris Home in Arms of His Family

PARIS, Aug. 8.—John W. Gates, the American financier, died at 5:10 this morning in the arms of his wife and son, Charles G. Gates.

The end was peaceful and it seemed as though he was falling asleep.
The usual restoratives failed in the last crisis.

Others present at the bedside besides the members of the family were Drs. Gross and Reeves.
His iron constitution and courageous resistance, backed by every resource of medical science, failed to save Mr. Gates.

He had battled for weeks with a disease of the kidneys and when it was believed he was almost sure to recover, he contracted pneumonia.

Several times he was reported to be at the point of death but with the aid of powerful stimulants rallied. The pneumonia and kidney troubles had ameliorated somewhat Monday, but early Tuesday morning there was a recurrence of the congestion of the kidneys which was followed by a further attack Tuesday noon.

Tuesday night Mr. Gates suffered a general relapse and gradually sank until death intervened.

An official statement, issued by Drs.
Gross and Reeves, says the immediate cause of death was heart failure; that the lungs stopped their functions and smothered the heart's action. The end was painless, Mr. Gates being practically unconscious.

One of the most picturesque personalities in American financial annals was John W. Gates. The predominating characteristics of his nature were energy and speculation, particularly the latter. Gates, who was born in DeKalb, Ill., was a big man with a powerful build, a high forehead, a deep-set eye, and a strong jaw.
His trouble in the end was not in making, but in holding on to his money.
He was a man of great energy and a man of great courage. He was a man of great vision and a man of great action. He was a man of great

PERKINS FACES CALL

should not make contributions to campaign fund.

The witness was subjected to a rigorous examination by Mr. Stanley relating to the record of the minutes of the executive committee of the steel corporation at which Mr. Perkins proposed a plan of converting $200,000,000 worth of steel preferred stock into $250,000,000 4 per cent second mortgage bonds, thus gaining $50,000,000 without costing the corporation anything.

After reading the minutes in which Mr. Perkins was quoted regarding the bond conversion transactions, Chairman Stanley asked:

"Did you ever propose to operate this transaction so as to get $50,000,000 for nothing?"

"No, sir," said Mr. Perkins.

"You suggested this plan of conversion, did you not?"

"I anticipated you would question me on that line and I have prepared a statement concerning just what I did do," said Mr. Perkins, "which I will ask permission to submit later."

Read Record of Meeting.

The record of that meeting read, Mr. Perkins was that of a plan which the finance committee of the corporation had been talking over and was going to submit that day to the board of directors. Mr. Perkins explained that when the separate companies of

George W. Perkins, director of the United States Steel Corporation and chairman of the finance committee of the International Harvester company, the corporation were brought together there were many contracts that had recently been made for extensions and improvements aggregating something over $10,000,000. The corporation had reduced something like $20,000,000 being forced to carry the contracts along. In addition, he told the executive committee that the purchase of the Rockefeller oil properties had caused the corporation to give Mr. Rockefeller notes maturing that year amounting to about $10,000,000 leaving in all about $10,000,000 that was not capital and that we have been somewhat bothered to know just what to do with it.

"It was not fair to take it out of the earnings of the several companies we thought," Mr. Perkins was quoted as having said to the executive committee, after they were brought together, "and we have given the matter the standpoint of the company if we can raise the preferred stock. When we came to look into that we concluded the only time to do it was when the preferred stock was below par as it would then be some inducement with people to take the bonds. If they had stock at 90 and could turn it into bonds at par, they might feel that there was something in it, and further we can only do it when the preferred stock is held in large blocks so we could get a syndicate of it. We began to look about for the large preferred stockholders and have been successful after two or three months' work in getting up a good-sized syndicate of large stockholders who would put up their preferred stock and underwrite for the success of the thing, provided the stockholders generally did not take it. The idea of the finance committee was that we would make an offer to all of the preferred stockholders say:

"Will you change 40 per cent of the stock for these second mortgage bonds? And if they did not do it, then the syndicate would stand ready to do so to a reasonable extent; and if we did not get the entire 40 per cent, say for instance, we only got 20 per cent, we would issue 25 per cent of additional bonds for whatever stock we took in. That is, if we took in 20 per cent of the preferred stock, or $100,000,000, we would issue $25,000,000 of bonds in place of $50,000,000.

"We thought it would be a desirable plan in a word many ways; it would give us $50,000,000 of cash without cost; it would wipe out these inherited improvements and pay the Rockefeller notes. We have made an arrangement with them to take these bonds in settlement of their obligations which is a good thing of course and leaves us an additional sum of money that might be used in reorganizing some of the plants and doing things that we want to have done in Chicago and for the bridge company at Pittsburgh. In this way the money really would earn in two ways: First, in the handling of the products between the mills, saving in management in handling the business and increasing the efficiency of the mills so as to give a larger output and make more money in that way. As to how the stockholders will take it, it seems to us: If the preferred stock was reduced about 40 per cent the remaining 60 per cent would be more favorably and the preferred stockholders might look at it in that way. We have thought the bonds might be a 30-year bond and convertible into preferred stock within 10 years at 110. Another thing we would accomplish if we got 40 per cent of the preferred stock in obligations maturing in 50 years we would be creating a sinking fund for retiring what is considered some of the water in the concern. So far as the common stock is concerned, this is going to help it because the earning capacity of the $50,000,000 would go towards the common stock. We have worked out a form of bond and are going to submit it to the board. I report this matter now so we may talk over the plan you desire. We propose to offer the whole thing to the preferred stockholders and let them vote on it."

Favors Preferred Stockholders.

Continuing the record quoted Judge Gary as asking if they option would be extended to all stockholders and if the finance committee proposed to make an elastic bond, "so you can, if necessary, issue bonds in place of preferred stock." The remainder of the record was as follows:

Mr. Perkins—No, we think that would be dangerous. We figured 40 per cent because we believe that $50,000,000 of second mortgage bonds would be considered very good. Whereas if we called $500,000,000 of preferred stock the universal criticism would be that the bonds are not better security than the stock, and if you pass the dividends on the preferred stock you would not be in the hands of a receiver and if you passed the interest on the bonds you would be."

Mr. Roberts—Will the common stockholder be invited to subscribe to these bonds?

Mr. Perkins—No, we thought that we ought not to be allowed to do that because we have tried to see where the justice was. The preferred stockholders are entitled to as fair treatment as can be given them for giving up their 40 per cent of the stock, and the common ought not to be allowed to take these bonds. Moreover, the common stockholders have benefited by the earning capacity of the $50,000,000 put into improvements.

Mr. Gary—I think off-hand it is a pretty good plan.

Mr. Perkins—It puts us in a strong financial position and reduces our fixed charges.

Mr. Gary—In some way we must raise some extra money. We must finance improvements that have been made and must be made in order to make our different plans symmetric. We must have more money and this seems to be a way to get it without increasing our fixed charges.

DIG UP HOI AS EVIDENCE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 8.—A hole in the ground caused by the explosion of a bomb will figure in the trial of the McNamara brothers for the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times. The hole was dug up and boxed for preservation last night.

On the morning of the destruction of the Times building last October 11, two exploded bombs were found on the roof of the building. One of the bombs, owned by General H. G. Otis, owner of the Times and P. J. Zebundelaer, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association. A detective was carrying off the bomb, enclosed in a suit case, from the Otis grounds when he heard a clock begin ticking, and dropped the grip and ran. The bomb went off, tearing a large hole in the ground between the sidewalk and curbs.

The hole remained undisturbed, and a few days ago the officers for the defense decided they needed the hole for evidence.

Accordingly, four detectives set to work Sunday night, and by daybreak today had tunneled under the hole, boxed it in and prepared to cart it to Attorney Job Harriman's office.

At this point a truck, haphazardly noticed their operations, and telephoned District Attorney Fredericks. Gathering an automobile full of detectives, Fredericks rushed to the scene.

"Hold on," cried Fredericks, peering into the box, "what have we here?"

"Nothing but a hole," replied Harriman's detectives.

"Oh, very well," said the district attorney, "you're welcome to it."

Today the Red Men conferred degrees and the election of officers will take place Wednesday. E. A. Thomas of Pueblo probably will be elected great sachem to succeed George Gelfer of Colorado City, the present head of the Colorado Red Men.

SAYS BIRDS REALLY DANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Charles A. Corwin of the Field Museum of Natural History has returned to Chicago from a trip to the Laysan Island in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, which it is said has been deserted by every living creature except the sea birds.
"It has been established that the island is inhabited by at least eight million birds, the most of which consist of two species of albatross," said Mr. Corwin yesterday. "There were so many birds on the ground, nesting, that we had to crowd our way through to avoid stepping on them."
"The island is only two miles long and a mile wide. In the center of it is a lagoon of about 200 acres. The rocks that lie in this lagoon are thickly populated with a species of lovebirds."
"We can fully verify the stories that these strange birds have a peculiar dance which resembles the daisy cake walk. They clap their bills together and waddle about with high stepping antics, ducking their heads first under one wing, then under the other. All through the dance they whistle and utter weird sounds."

WHAT HE HAD LOST

From Lippincott's Magazine.
When the Hon. Champ Clark last visited Georgia he was much amused by the sad case of an aged negro as set forth by the negro's wife.
"It appears that Mr. Clark was walking along the main street of a town in that state when he came upon an old couple. The man was staggering, and the woman was beating him soundly. 'You are evidently of the opinion that liquor is not good for your husband,' the representative ventured to remark to the old negro."
"Ain't good for him?" retorted the old woman. "Of course it ain't good for him. It ain't good for nobody. Why, sah, old Joe heah he's 90 years old, an' done drink liquor all his life. New look at him! Ef he had left dat stuff alone he mighter been a hundred by dis time!"

CONTINUAL DOUBT

From the National Monthly.
"How many children have you?" asked the tourist, affably.
"I dunno, exactly," answered the tired-looking woman.
"You don't know?"
"Not for certain. Willie's gone fishin', Lummy's dead, In a coll, George has borrowed his father's shotgun to go huntin', an' Esmeralda Ann is thinkin' of elopin'. I don't know how many I've got the supper time comes, so's I can count 'em."

HANDCUFFS FAIL TO KEEP PRISONER WITH OFFICERS

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 8.—While handcuffed together, James Blackburn and Jack Ingham, who were being taken from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Taos, Texas, by Sheriff Armstrong of Oidham county for stealing stock, escaped at Bragden, Colo., at 2 o'clock this morning. Sheriff Armstrong fell asleep and the men walked from their seats without being stopped by any of the 50 passengers.

BIG FIRE AT STARKVILLE

TRINIDAD, Colo., Aug. 8.—Five buildings were destroyed by a fire believed to be of incendiary origin early today at Starkville, five miles west of here. The loss is estimated at $10,000. The blaze was discovered at 2 o'clock and for four hours, men, women and children battled with the flames that threatened the entire town.

continuation under the agreement to vote on the statehood bill on the legislative day, August 7, it was decided that no mention should be made today of the loss of the senate's oldest member. There was a unanimous desire that when adjournment was taken out of respect for his memory that it be for an entire day. The formality will be complied with immediately after the senate convenes tomorrow.

Senator Frye was famed for his fairness to all members, whether as the presiding officer or in debate on the floor. He never let politics interfere with his unflinching consideration of the feelings of his colleagues.

By the recent Democratic victory in Maine and the resultant election of a Democratic governor and legislature, Senator Frye will be succeeded by a member of that party. The change will reduce the Republican membership of the senate to 42 and increase the Democratic membership to 41. Senator Frye's term would have ended March 4, 1912. There are said to be a half dozen prominent Democrats in the state who will aspire to the short-term appointment. While there has been discussion already of the probability of a successor, Senator Johnson, the Democratic senator from Maine, declined to venture an opinion as to who his colleague is likely to be. The choice at present will rest with Governor Hilditch, who will make an appointment. The accession of another Democrat to the senate will make the Maine congressional delegation four Democrats and two Republicans. The Democrats already have half the Maine membership in the house.

Member of Remarkable Coterie.
Senator Frye was one of the last members of that remarkable coterie of Maine statesmen which began with Hannibal Hamlin, ended with himself and Senator Hale, who retired at the close of the last session of congress, and included James G. Blaine, William Pitt Fessenden, Thomas B. Reed and Nelson Dingley.

Both he and Hale began service in the senate in 1881 and served side by side for 20 years, a much longer time than any other two men sat together in the senate.

Frye began his career as the successor of Blaine, and Hale as the successor of Hamlin. Both entered the senate after conspicuous service in the house and both began their congressional careers in the latter body simultaneously.

The parallel would have been complete if Mr. Hale had not skipped a term between the termination of his house and the beginning of his senate service, and if he had not practically voluntarily severed his connection with the senate by announcing long in advance that he would not be a candidate for reelection after the conclusion of his senatorial term, ending in March, 1911.

Mr. Frye was in congress for 40 years, giving him the longest congressional record, with the two exceptions of Justin S. Morrill of Vermont and William Allison of Iowa. For 15 years Mr. Frye had been president pro tempore of the senate, and by virtue of the fact that he held this office when the late Vice President Hobart died, he assumed all the functions of vice president of the United States during the latter half of President McKinley's administration. Previous to the assumption of the duties of presiding officer, Mr. Frye was one of the most active debaters in the senate.

Active in Discussions.
Coming to congress before the close of the reconstruction period following the Civil war, and being a pronounced partisan, he immediately became an active participant in the discussions of that thrilling period. He soon took front rank as a speaker, and by the time he had served 10 years, had risen to a position of such eminence that but for his election to the senate he doubtless would have been a leading speaker of the house.

Both as senator and as representative, Mr. Frye gave most of his time to practical questions. He was for many years chairman of the senate committee on commerce, and in that capacity became an expert on all questions dealing with shipping, navigation, river and harbor improvements, lighthouses, revenue cutters and bridge legislation. He was one of the principal promoters of the movement in favor of subsidies for the promotion of American shipping. So highly was his judgment in most of these matters regarded that no ordinary bill reported from the commerce committee was ever questioned.

Mr. Frye was also a member of long standing of the committee on foreign relations. In some respects this is regarded as the most desirable of all the senate committees, yet so anxious was he to serve the commercial world that when Senator Sherman retired from the chairmanship of the foreign affairs committee, the Maine senator voluntarily surrendered the vacant place to remain at the head of the commerce committee.

Of international questions Mr. Frye gave most attention to matters involving oriental relations. No man in public life had a better command of the situation in the Samoan islands while they were a bone of international contention. He also was familiar with conditions in Hawaii before the annexation of the islands, and was an effective advocate of American policy there.

He was one of President McKinley's ardent supporters in the Spanish war, and when that conflict was brought to a close, he was selected as one of the American commissioners to negotiate a peace treaty which he afterwards signed in Paris.

Before entering congress, Mr. Frye had attained distinction as a lawyer in his native city of Lewiston. The financial outlook was most flattering, but he always declared that while he probably would have been able to amass a large fortune, he had no regrets over his course in foregoing this opportunity.

Senator Cullum now becomes the ranking senator in point of longest service.

ELM AND OAK TREES BEST

Brooklyn's Forester Puts Ban of Undesirability on Several Other Shade Trees

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 8.—Following the opening session of the thirteenth annual meeting of the American Park Superintendents here today, the visitors were entertained with drives over the boulevards of the city, a dinner and a visit to an amusement park this afternoon and tonight. During the session today routine matters were considered after which Henry D. Ashley, park commissioner of Kansas City, addressed the delegates. At the afternoon session J. J. Levison, forester in charge of the trees in the parks of Brooklyn, N. Y., spoke upon the subject of street trees.

Mr. Levison told of the various kinds of trees that should be planted in cities. The elm, he said, was the noblest of all shade trees, while the oak was the slowest in growing out but because of its foliage was worth waiting for. He advocated planting all shade trees in larger cities under the care of a forester who understood their needs. Poplars, silver maples, sycamore maples and catalpa trees, he said, are undesirable varieties.

HOLSTLAW RETELS HIS HUMILIATING NARRATIVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Feebly defending his confessed graft, former State Senator D. W. Holstlaw, the 62-year-old Illinois banker and church leader, today retold to the senate committee his story of being paid for voting for Lorimer for senator. Incidentally he told of asking and of being promised $1,500 for buying furniture for the state from a concern.

Holstlaw was asked many humiliating questions. He was required to tell of being called before the grand jury in Sangamon county on his way back from a Baptist convention in Baltimore to which he was a delegate. He was told by counsel into all the details of his demand to be paid by the furniture men before he bought furniture for the state.

"You were looking out for the best interests of the state when you demanded $1,500," asked Senator Kenyon. "I felt honestly that I was not taking anything from the state but was getting part of the agent's commission."

"You were worth $100,000 and did not need the money?"

"No, I did not need it. Did you intend to turn it over to some charity fund?" suggested Attorney Marble.

"No, no, I intended to keep every cent of it."

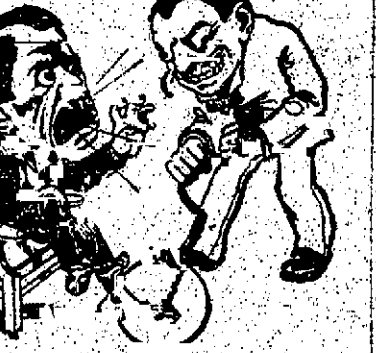

He did not get the money because he told the grand jury about it, he said. He declared it was mostly to get immunity for his part in the furniture deal that he told the grand jury of receiving money for voting for Lorimer. He said that when he wanted to correct his testimony in regard to the furniture deal and avoid prosecution for perjury, State's Attorney Burke said word that "I would not be allowed to go back and correct my statement unless I told all I knew about the Lorimer deal."

COLORADO MAN, ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF BIGAMY

SALT LAKE, Aug. 8.—Charged with marrying a girl in Canon City, Colo., while he had a wife and two children at Florence, Colo., E. E. Pyper, an ice wagon driver, aged 24, was arrested here today and will be held for the Colorado authorities. Pyper is said to have married first at Greeley, lived for a time in Cheyenne, Wyo., and then moved to Florence, where he was married to the woman he is said to have married at Canon City. A few days ago this woman intercepted a letter to Pyper from his mother which caused her to lay the matter before the county attorney of Salt Lake county.

New Corn Cure A Marvel

"Gets-It" Gets It: First Time Proves It

No More Corn Cures That Feel Like This

Beats them all, the new corn cure that corn-preferring people have been looking for ever since the day of shoes. Does it really do the work? Well, just one trial will prove it.

The name of this big surprise is "GETS-IT," because it gets it. You don't have to wrap your toes in bandages. There are no plaster, no salves. What is more, "GETS-IT" will never, absolutely can't, hurt or make rag the toe flesh as many other corn "things" do. If it gets on the skin, it won't, can't hurt or injure the flesh. Apply it in two or three days. It's guaranteed, or your money is refunded.

Chicago Kidnapers Threaten Death in "Black Hand" Letter

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Antonio Marengo, whose five-year-old son was kidnaped by "black hand" blackmailers, received a third letter from the kidnapers late today. The writers made a direct threat to kill the boy if the ransom is not paid before daybreak tomorrow.

"If you don't send us the money," reads the letter, "we will send the boy home to you in a box, salted."

Fully believing that the blackmailers will carry out their threat to kill his little son Marengo begged the police to use all possible haste in running down the gang. A score of detectives, including several Italian members of the force, hurried to the Canal street Italian quarter soon after the letter was received by Marengo. No arrests were made, however, and the kidnapers returned to Gaunt court which has been a pivotal point in the peculiar case thus far. Today's letter was in the same handwriting as the other two and was unsigned. It follows:

"Listen, big spy-dishonest scoundrel! You turned to the justice, telling them that you had money, but it is not as you say, that you have no money. We know how much you have. It is not that you have no money but that you have no affection for your child. We have affection for your money more than you have. If you have no affection for your child how do you expect us to have any? If, in four days, which will end tomorrow at daybreak, you don't send us the money, we will send the boy home to you in a box, salted."

"And your time we will spend at work looking for you and your big son. We will strike you a complete merit with our hands. Whenever you go you will find us at your back. Look out and think well before you do something that you will be sorry for. Kind friends for you can find them, because it will be to your advantage. And if you don't come to our order we will do away with you and your family."

solidated Steel and Wire company. Edenborn was made president and Gates, general manager.

Removes to Chicago.
"Johnny" Gates and "Moonshine" Johnson had now become John W. Gates, citizen of Chicago, where he moved in 1892—man of the world, follower of the race track for diversion, and with an ever-increasing passion to risk his money on anything and everything where a bet could quicken his pulse. But he was not yet a plunger in the grain or stock markets.

To acquire the money that enabled him to become an interloper in Wall street, feared even by its biggest men, John W. Gates had only to bring to fruition his early dream of a wire trust. After his first success in getting together the Consolidated Steel and Wire company, he was asked to assume the presidency of the Illinois Steel company, which at that time was struggling along after the "hard times" panic. Gates gradually extended his activities and influence and in the fall of 1897 he determined to try again to merge the wire companies.

J. Pierpont Morgan agreed to finance the undertaking but was scared out when the Spanish war started. Lloyd L. Smith, a Chicago capitalist, jumped into a breach and he, Gates and Ellen, floated the $80,000,000 wire combine.

Plays Game From Outside.
But with all this tremendous money power behind him, Gates could not get a seat in Wall street, so he played the game from the outside. He came to New York with his bankroll and set up his son, Charles G. Gates, in the brokerage business under the name of his son, who had been admitted to the exchange. From that time father and son were inseparable, both in business and pleasure. The brokerage house soon made the high record for a day's business on the New York exchange, 45,000 shares on which the brokerage commissions were approximately $50,000.

When Wall street grew tiresome in 1900, Gates took his son with him to England, where he plunged on the London stock exchange. On one race he backed "Royal Flush" from 25 to 1 to 1 and won half a million dollars.

The panic of 1907, it was said, hit Gates hard and it was pointed out that he would have to retire from active finance. He took a trip round the world with his son as a diversion and then returned to New York. A newspaper reporter hunted him up and ventured: "I understand you're all in, down and out."

"But you a million I ain't," retorted John W. Gates, and his old spirit was aroused.

Again Starts Fiery Methods.
What Gates' real condition was at that particular moment is unknown, but it is known that he restarted his old fiery methods and, before the opposition was aware of it, he had built up the Texas company and was fighting Standard Oil from the state out of which the Rockefeller concern had just been driven by the courts. The Texas company, established over 20 branches in the east and began to compete with the older concern. The battle is still on, although the take-a-chance leader is no longer in the fight.

Despite his lavishness with his money, John W. Gates never laid claim to doing anything for charity. When he gave buildings, equipments, land and money to the amount of $225,000 to the Methodist church early in 1911 for the erection of a Methodist university at Fort Arthur, Tex., it was not as a gift, but as a bait for Fort Arthur is where the headquarters of the Texas company are located, and Gates declared he thought it would recur to his benefit to have the university there and thus boom the city.

Before the House Committee.
Gates created a sensation last May when he went before the house committee at Washington in the "Steel trust investigation" and told his story of how the United States Steel corporation was organized. The use he made of Andrew Carnegie's name

MISSING IOWA BOY
old staggered into the Halfway house on Pikes Peak. He told a strange story of how he was sitting alone on the trail when he was struck down from behind with a rock and poison forced between his lips as he was lying on his back. He recovered his senses and found that his money, watch, ring and part of his clothing had been taken. Just as he reached the Halfway house he fell unconscious. Young Cutler was rushed to St. Francis hospital and died the next day without fully regaining his senses. It was believed at that time that he had been poisoned, but the opinion prevailed that he had taken the drug voluntarily, with a view of committing suicide.

Wrote From This City.
The day before Cutler's experience in the mountains, Mrs. Bacon received a postcard from him, dated Colorado Springs, in which he said that he had just arrived from Denver. He proposed to spend two days sightseeing before starting to work in a motorcycle shop.

"I am positive that he was robbed and an attempt made to kill him with poison," said Mrs. Dillenbeck yesterday. "He was struck over the head with a rock, and then acid of some kind forced down his throat in the hope that it would kill him. I am sure that Del was not a suicide. He has an excellent family, had money in his pockets and had already secured employment in Colorado Springs. He was not the sort of boy to become discouraged or despondent at a little adversity, and I cannot believe that the suicide theory is correct. He was a fine young man of an inventive turn of mind, and there was no reason why he should want to die."

Mrs. Dillenbeck advertised in the newspapers at the time of the young man's death in the hope that there might be some mistake in identity, and that Cutler was still living. His family back in Waterloo was unable to give any information other than that their son had gone to Colorado Springs. It was learned yesterday that Cutler and a younger sister were going to take up a claim in Florida this fall, and that his chief reason for coming west was to earn money to make the first payment on the land.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these tenderfoot farmers, who put their spectacles on his nose and fed him shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as it was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds him self regardless of good and bad. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an untold remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense, "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer deceive you by his o. a. profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

DRY FARM BOOSTERS OFF FOR COPE, COLO.

John Lennox, chairman of the board of control of the Dry Farming congress, H. S. Rogers, manager of publicity, and William Thomas of the Dry Farming headquarters, left last evening on the Rock Island for Cope, Washington county, this state, to attend the big picnic of farmers. They will do some extensive advertising of the congress while away. The Cope picnic is an annual affair, and lasts three days or more. The farmers come in with tents and camp for the time, and there is a general jubilee of speech making and entertainment. Mr. Lennox is on the program for an address on dairying and the Dry Farming congress, and Mr. Rogers will gather up some data for a series of articles on the country, and the meetings. Mr. Thomas takes along a quantity of dry farming literature and information about the Colorado Springs congress. Every effort will be made to interest the people in the congress and urge them to attend the meeting. There is little doubt that the people are going to pour in here from the eastern part of the state at the time of the congress, provided the weather is favorable, and usually it is at that time of the year. A number of Colorado Springs men who travel out over the state are looking it up, and are going to sound the people as they go along, and they report an almost unanimous declaration that the people are getting ready to come and exhibit.

SOMETHING TO MARVEL AT UPON EVERY VISIT

Pioneer Pleased With New and Beautiful Residences and Business Blocks in Colorado Springs

Every time Dr. C. E. Hulett of Topeka, Kan., returns to Colorado Springs he finds some new improvement to marvel at and something new that is beautiful to appreciate. He has been spending his summers here for the last 15 years, and in 1879 he located in the then seven-year-old town for four months. His reminiscences of the old days are interesting to residents, old and young, and he told his story yesterday. He arrived in town yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Hulett, and will spend the remainder of the summer here and in Manitou.

"I came here in '78 with my brother," said Dr. Hulett, "and we had many experiences such as seldom fall to the lot of a couple of youngsters who have just become of age. We camped at Pueblo for three weeks and rode from there to Denver on the Denver & Rio Grande, which was a narrow gauge system at that time and the only railroad running between Pueblo and Denver. The Spaulding house was the only hotel in Manitou at this time and while in that village we lived there."

"Start for Leadville," "Hundreds of freight wagons hauled by mule teams, horses and oxen, passed through Ute Pass every day on the way to Leadville, 132 miles distant. We started there on foot to make our fortune, and after traveling many miles found the snow so deep that we could go no further. Teamsters we met told us boys and men were dying there, and so we were glad to turn back."

"May 12 we started to climb to the top of Pikes Peak, getting up as far as old trail, where we were blocked by snow, as were a party of tourists who had come from Boston. They were on horses and mules, and even these sturdy beasts could not get through the drifts, which were eight feet deep in places. We saw mountain lions but never close enough to get into danger or to take a shot at them."

"On one occasion Ute Pass was blocked for two days by a large boulder which had to be blasted out of the way, the blasting process taking many hours. Every time I come to Colorado Springs I wonder at the familiarity with which buildings go up and at the magnificent residences. I find something new that is beautiful each time I come here."

BUFFALO JONES

KING OF COWBOYS AND KING OF ALL ANIMALS

At Mansions hotel lawn, Manitou, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week, Buffalo Jones has just returned from Africa, where he and two American cowboys roped and conquered all the wild beasts of the dark continent and had the proof recorded in motion pictures. His lectures and pictures are beyond description or better until you see and hear the man and view the real acts. Buffalo Jones is spending his vacation at Manitou, and he has consented to entertain the thousands who are on tip-toe to see for themselves what Americans can and have done. A small charge of 5 and 10 cents will be made to defray expenses. This entertainment will not interfere with the free concert and moving pictures to be given at the Mansions hotel.

Springs Business Men Will Develop Territory

Colorado Springs business men shortly will develop several thousand acres of land in the Kremmling valley, opened up by the Moffat road, and to this end a company known as the Millie Park Improvement company, has been organized with a capital of $125,000. E. A. Sunderlin is president and treasurer, J. R. Moore is vice president and general manager, and B. M. Clark is secretary. The directorate consists of the above, together with E. C. Allen, T. E. Curtin and Henry C. Hall. The three officers are the incorporators. The company will act as a holding concern for the Kremmling Reservoir and Irrigation company and other development companies, which the promoters may organize ultimately. Mr. Moore expects to move to Kremmling to supervise the irrigation work. The land is located 126 miles from Denver, at an altitude of 7,500 feet, and can be bought from the government at about $125 per acre. Electricity will be furnished by a waterfall of 300 feet in Red Dirt creek, for the electric lights which will come eventually.

Englishmen to Examine Florissant Fossil Beds

Prof. John Jayne Farnsworth and a party of three, representing the British museum, will study the fossil fields near Florissant, on the Colorado Midland railway, the last part of this week. They will arrive in Colorado Springs tomorrow, and will start work at once. Information to this effect was received yesterday by N. L. Dray, Midland agent in Colorado Springs. The fossil fields are declared to be some of the most extensive and best preserved in the world. Specimens will be secured, together with those from fossil fields in California, China and India. The four expect to be gone from London, which is Professor Farnsworth's home, about one year. The Florissant field will be the first important ones looked over.

WHEAT PLANT HAS ROOTS MILF AND QUARTER LONG

That some interesting exhibits of the vegetable world, outside the big pumpkins and squashes, will be shown at the exposition to be held here at the time of the Dry Farming congress, is evident from the comments of exchanges throughout the drylands sections. Here is one from the Golden Prairie Herald, published at Burns, Wyo., that is worth reprinting:

"In direction of the State Farm board, Superintendent H. Watson came down to Burns two weeks ago to get out a wheat root for the purpose of showing the immense root system of a single plant. He selected a stool in the field of W. J. Stinson, three miles south of Burns. This stool contained about 85 straws with well-developed heads."

"He began the work by digging a wide trench on one side of the plant five feet long and seven feet deep. With the aid of a spray force pump he then washed the soil away from the fibrous roots. This required the steady work of himself and a helper for six full days. He found that nearly all the long tap roots ran straight down, terminating in a bed of very gravelly clay from six to seven feet below the surface. It was impossible to separate the tender rootlets from this gravel so that he was unable to get any part of the root system below that point. He however succeeded in getting the entire root system of this one plant, 730 feet in other words over a mile and a quarter."

"The plant itself was nearly three feet above the ground so that the combined length of plant and depth of root system was 11 feet. Mr. Watson has mounted the plant in a case three feet wide and 18 feet high, with a black velvet background. On this he has displayed the plant with its root system spread out fan shaped."

"Few people will believe that plants possess such a wonderful root system, and it surely demonstrates the foundation principles of scientific or Dry Farming. That is, to furnish a deep soil moisture reservoir beneath your crop."

"This plant will be exhibited at the Wyoming Dry Farming convention at Cheyenne. The Golden Prairie fair, September 13-14 and 15, the State fair the last of September, and the Dry Farm congress at Colorado Springs in October."

"It may now be seen at the office of the board, No. 100 West Seventeenth street, Cheyenne, Wyo."

Young Mothers

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepared the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

THOUSANDS GO TO SEE CIRCUS PERFORMANCE

If there had been circuses in the time of Ferdinand De Soto I doubt if he would have searched for the fountain of eternal youth," said a gray-haired tourist yesterday morning, as he watched the circus parade go by from a point of vantage on Pike's Peak avenue. "Ferdinand wanted to be young again all his life, and he would have had to go to see the show. I think that is what I want to do when I want to feel young again."
With the tourist who wore a "showman" ribbon pinned to his coat lapel was his wife and two grandchildren, the elder a girl of about 12 and the other a boy 10 or 11 years of age.
"I think the parade was punk," said the boy after the callopes turned the corner, out of sight.
"Why, it was not," said the girl. "It was just dandy. It was much nicer than the parade the circus had at home, don't you think so, grandma?" The tourist neither agreed nor disagreed.
"Well, go and see the show," he replied, "you can never tell how good or how bad a circus will be by the parade. Anyway, those elephants look good. Never saw a finer bunch in my life. We'll see the show first and then, criticize afterwards."

Big Crows Attend.
Most everybody who could get away from business, and most of those who had no business to attend to, took in either the afternoon or evening performance, and when all was over it was generally agreed that the show was "dandy." Each attendance was fully $2.00.
Captain Webb's two troupes of trained seals and sea lions, the daring equestrians, the girl who rides in the somersault automobile and scores of other acts and novelties that go to make up an excellent program were presented. Forepaugh and Sells Brothers never presented a more interesting or varied list of amusements than yesterday.
The parade formed near the circus grounds in the 1100 block on North Washington avenue at 11 o'clock in the morning, moving south on Weber, to Platte, west on Platte to Tejon, south to Cuchara, east to Nevada and north to the starting point. It was an interesting parade, and thousands of people lined the streets to watch it pass.
Much amusement was caused by sleepy drivers of animal wagons, who looked as though they had not slept since the day they began work. Equestrians, however, looked sprightly and wide-awake, and rode their horses with an abandon that showed their thorough mastery. "Never have prettier horses or ponies been seen in Colorado Springs."

"JOY RIDERS" COME TO GRIEF IN STOLEN AUTO

A stolen automobile, belonging to Charles A. Monravia, of Oklahoma City, and occupied by six tourists, three men and three women, became unmanageable, while going down Jones hill in Broadmoor about 12:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, ran off the bridge at the foot of the hill, struck a telephone pole, breaking it in two and smashing the machine, but the occupants escaped with only a few bruises.
A young man, whose name is unknown, but who was formerly in the employ of Monravia, went to the Homenway Carriage company's shop late Monday afternoon and said Monravia had sent him for his machine, which had been left there for repairs. Leaving the shop it is thought that he went to Manitou, where he met some of his friends, and took a joy ride with him. During the evening it seems that the men indulged in too many intoxicants and started a dispute. During the discussion the car reached Jones hill, and in the scuffle the driver lost control of the wheel.
The members of the party refused to reveal their identity, and a few minutes after the accident boarded a street car for the Springs. The damage to the car is estimated at $400.
Last night the police had no clue as to the identity of the men who took the car from the Homenway shops.

CASCADE DELEGATES BUSY

Delegates to the Rocky Mountain conference of the Missionary Educational Council, which is being held at Pike's Peak yesterday afternoon, returned "fagged out" before they had reached the city. Several games of tennis were played, and in the evening, after services were held at the Rialto hotel, where the conference is being held, at 8 o'clock an address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Moore of Boston to an audience which packed the pavilion. In the morning class work was done.

May Give Winter Dances Stratton Park Pavilion

In view of the great popularity of the dances at the Stratton park pavilion, the directors of the street car company are discussing the advisability of installing a heating plant and continuing them throughout the winter months. Although no definite action has been taken, it is probable that the board will pass upon this early in the fall. The one objection at present is the fact that the returns possibly will not pay for the installation of the heating system.

MISS CROOM AUTHORIZED TO SELL RED CROSS BOOK

That Miss Florence Croom is an agent of the Warner Library company of New York and as such is authorized by this company to sell its edition of Clara Barton's history of the Red Cross, is indicated by a telegram sent yesterday by that company. The telegram states that Miss Croom is a deserving lady, but makes no claim that she is in any way officially connected with the American National Red Cross. This telegram was sent to the Chamber of Commerce as a result of the notice which had previously been received from the headquarters of the American National Red Cross in Washington, stating that "Miss Croom is unknown to American Red Cross and has no authority to represent us."

FILLBROWN BOUND OVER

Waiving preliminary hearings, in Justice Dunnington's court yesterday, F. E. Fillbrown was bound over to the district court on a charge of grand larceny. He was committed in default of bond of $500.

Fillbrown, it is alleged, met Dr. C. W. Wolfberger of Littleton when the latter arrived at the Denver and Rio Grande station here, and represented that he was working for a hotel. He took the physician's suit case and other effects and offered to carry them to the "crier" hotel. That was the last Dr. Wolfberger saw of him.

The police have recovered the stolen property, including two fishing rods, a rifle and the contents of the suit case, valued in all at $100.

LOCAL COUPLE WED

Friends have received announcement cards of the marriage of Miss Hazel Winans and Charles H. After a short visit in Pueblo, Mr. Stevenson and bride will be at home to their friends at 328 North Spruce street. Mr. Stevenson is in charge of the engraving department of the Gentry-Stimmons Printing company.

A WONDERFUL SIGHT

Aside from the unequalled scenic grandeur of the trip, the Cripple Creek district itself is one of the world's famous show places.

Nothing has been heard of Bernard Reed, also known as Bernard Henry, the 9-year-old colored boy who is said to have hired a saddle horse for two hours from the Pioneer livery Monday morning and failed to show up with it at the expiration of that time. The authorities here received word from Green Mountain Falls yesterday that a horse answering to the description of the one missing, had been found tied to a post in that place. They will probably bring the animal back today.

THE RAISING OF THE MAINE.
The photograph shows all that is left of the old battleship looking from the bow. The work on the Maine is progressing slowly. Attention is directed mostly toward cleaning the mud from the berth deck, which is now two feet deep. The turret is now cleaned out and the gun mountings were found intact, although the rifle is gone away, as the breech blocks were removed after the explosion.

MANITOU DEPARTMENT MOOSE BAND TO PLAY MANSIONS CONCERTS

H. LaMonte Parker's 24-piece Moose band of Colorado Springs has been engaged to play the weekly concerts at the Mansions hotel park, the first one to be given tonight. Following is the program for this evening's concert: March—"Commander-in-Chief."
Horst Overbury, Violoncello, Nason and Suppe.
Waltz Suite—"Golden Sunset." Hall Selection—"The Thing, the Place and the Girl." INTERMISSION.
Spanish Serenade—"La Rosa de Castello." Reiter Selection—"Southern Songs." Conterno An Idyl—"Rose Leaves." Ashleigh Finale—"American Patrol." Meacham.
The other concerts this week will be given on Friday night and Sunday afternoon and night. Although tonight's concert will conflict with the Midland band concert in Soda Springs park, no other arrangement could be made for this week and the management has announced that hereafter the concerts will be arranged differently. J. L. Breathitt, under whose direction this work is being done, says that these concerts are not meant to take the crowds away from the Midland band, but are being given simply as an added attraction to the people in that part of town. Commencing next week three night and two matinee concerts will be given each week until the close of the season.
In addition to these concerts at least three films of motion pictures will be run each night, with three changes of program a week. This week "Buffalo Jones is giving an illustrated lecture on his hunting expedition to Africa. The members of the Dry Farming congress have asked for the use of the park for exhibition purposes during the convention here in October and it is probably that films showing methods of dry farming will be shown at that time.

FACE SCALDED BY STEAM

While placing a stick of wood on a camp fire recently, William James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur James of Waltham, avenue, was severely burned by hot water which poured off him as the result of the lid of a bucket of boiling water being blown off by the force of the steam. Young James, with his two companions, Herbert Sanford and Myron Ribbendale, went out on a scouting expedition about 6 o'clock, and after tramping awhile stopped to build a fire and cook supper. It was at this time that James met with the accident, the whole right side of his head being scalded. Dr. Ogilvie dressed the burns.

A very novel folder containing an announcement of what the Manitou's dutch room is and an invitation to all the people of Colorado Springs and Manitou as well as to all tourists in the region to make it a visit, has been issued by the owners of the well-known grill—on the front and back of the folder are appropriate Dutch pictures. Several thousand of the folders will be mailed to the residents of both Colorado Springs and Manitou.

BOY STILL MISSING

Nothing has been heard of Bernard Reed, also known as Bernard Henry, the 9-year-old colored boy who is said to have hired a saddle horse for two hours from the Pioneer livery Monday morning and failed to show up with it at the expiration of that time. BURGLARS AT WORK
From the number of reports of house robberies turned in to the police in the last few days, it seems that there is an organized gang working here. The house at 411 Platte avenue was recently entered and a great amount of wearing apparel taken. The house was occupied by tourists, all of whom were absent. It is evident that the gang is kept posted, as they usually enter a residence during the absence of the occupants. Nothing of great value has been taken yet. City Detective Payne is working on the case and hopes to land the gang in a short time.

Dr. C. F. Jensen, who recently suffered a second stroke of paralysis and was taken to the sanatorium in Pueblo, is reported slightly improved, although his condition is still critical.
A special car will be run on the Midland and Denver excursion tomorrow to accommodate the Baptist Sunday school picnic party. The pupils, parents and teachers will take the trip in charge of the pastor, the Rev. G. C. Cross, and officials of the church.

OUR OWN WONDERLAND

"FAMILIARITY breeds contempt," not always, but it breeds an indifference which is scarcely less worthy. To every visitor to Colorado Springs and to literal millions who have never seen this town, the name of the Garden of the Gods is scarcely less familiar than that of Pike's Peak itself.
The city in which we live is a pleasure and health resort of world wide fame, but it is not an exaggeration to say that countless thousands who have never heard its name know at a glance the familiar picture of the Gateway and the Cathedral Spires and can identify them as features of the Garden of the Gods.

Two or three years ago, thanks to the generosity of its former owner, this wonderland passed into the possession of the people of Colorado Springs. It was deeded to the city and became a part of our public park system, and as such it has since been administered.

But what do the people of Colorado Springs themselves know about the Garden of the Gods? How many of them, in visiting it, have departed from the main travelled road as much as a hundred yards?
How many of them know that in a fifteen-minute journey from the Gateway they would find themselves as completely lost amid unlooked-for scenic wonders as if they were a thousand miles from home?
Yet in the Garden of the Gods there are innumerable spots of such extraordinary beauty, such rare scenic grandeur, that the beholder is lost in admiration.

Hitherto these places have remained un-visited merely because 999 people out of every 1,000 who go to the Garden of the Gods drive through without leaving the main road. Another reason is that most of us have never discovered that we have legs, or having made the discovery, are reluctant to benefit by them. It is so much easier to loiter in a carriage or automobile than to walk that only a very small minority will make a brief exploratory tour even when assured of abundant reward for the trouble.

WANTED
THE MAN WITH THE VISION.

All that is needed to make the Garden of the Gods in the fullest sense the playground of the people of Colorado Springs and their visitors is the expenditure of a little money for the construction of new roads and trails. The Park Commission, made up of men who give their time and services with no other reward than the pleasure of the work, has since this place became city property, accomplished much in making it accessible and enhancing its attractiveness. But the funds at its command are wholly in-commensurate with the opportunity. There is a glorious chance for somebody who has the money, and what is infinitely rarer the imagination and the vision of the future to do with the Garden of the Gods what General Palmer did with Austin's Bluffs and the miserable patch of creek bottom which he magnificently transformed into beautiful Monument Valley Park.

Colorado Springs is famous as the home of millionaires. Why does not some one of them take advantage of this splendid opportunity to bring into a new existence a spot which is already internationally famous, but which strangely enough is still inaccessible to the masses. In all the world there is only one Garden of the Gods, and the expenditure of only a few thousands of dollars would make it the playground of the people in a sense hitherto undreamed of.

It is a strange thing if there is not in Colorado Springs some rich man with the vision to see and the will to grasp this opportunity.

THIS IS A COOL TOWN

YESTERDAY was the hottest day of the year in Colorado Springs. The maximum temperature registered at the Colorado College weather observatory was 91. Of course there are plenty of thermometers in town which registered a higher temperature, but these are unofficial, and the discrepancy is due either to faulty construction or to location in an exposed place which makes an inaccurate reading inevitable.

On a certain corner down town there is a big thermometer which probably is consulted by hundreds of people each day.
But it happens to be fastened to an iron post, so instead of recording the actual temperature of the atmosphere it records the temperature of the post, which of course is several degrees hotter than the surrounding air. By the same token this thermometer in winter indicates a temperature considerably lower than that of the air. The man who owns that thermometer ought to be prosecuted for knocking our glorious climate.

The records kept by the College observatory are reliable. A government thermometer makes an accurate record of the temperature hour by hour, and this record must be accepted as official. Six weeks ago, when the East and the Middle West were sweltering in an almost unprecedented hot wave, reliable thermometer readings showed mean average temperatures of from 95 to 100 degrees throughout that region.
At times the mercury mounted to 110 and 115 and remained there for hours.

HUMIDITY
SUFFERING.

But even these figures do not accurately indicate the misery which the natives must have suffered, for it is the humidity rather than the heat that produces suffering. At the same time Colorado Springs enjoyed a mean temperature of 82 or thereabouts. Its humidity ranged from 17 to 20. In the East the summer humidity may be anywhere from 60 to 90. It is difficult to grasp the significance of these figures. Long residence in Colorado Springs with all that this means sound sleep throughout nights so cool that woolen blankets are not merely desirable but necessary tends to produce forgetfulness of the miseries of an eastern summer. But when we recall the eastern nights spent in futile search—not for comfort but for comparative relief from the stifling heat, in lying prostrate on a bed, trying vainly to fan oneself to sleep, it is easier to understand the hold which Colorado Springs has on the worn-out Easterner.

True, there is such a thing as getting used to being miserable. People who live in the East have to get used to it whether they like it or not. It is like rheumatism, nobody ever really enjoys it, but some manage to get used to it, but thanks to Colorado Springs with its life-giving, strength-reviving climate, those who can afford the small expense of a summer journey are not compelled to suffer the torments of the hot season. A journey of a day, or but little more, brings them to this favored region where humidity is unknown and heat loses its terrors.

This is not a mere platitudinous boast for Colorado Springs as a summer resort.
It is a calm, deliberate reminder to the people who dwell here and more especially to the thousands of Eastern visitors, that they ought to give thanks every day for the privilege of living or spending a vacation in a spot so beautifully blessed by nature with all that makes life most worth while.

THE CLINTON
DAILY CHAT
—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

What would you do if you were going with a young man and were in love with him and he wasn't anxious to show his love for you? This young man is very nice, always treats me very courteously and tells the young men in town that he loves me.
But I had my girl friend go with him to a show recently and the fellow told her he never intended to get married. He told her yes, some day when he got so old that he would have to feed himself with a spoon.

I quote the above letter because it describes a certain kind of boy which I think decidedly needs to be put into the pillory of public scorn and condemnation. It is the man who never wants to adult to one girl that he is in love with another.
This creature, with a disagreeable kind of cunning, distinctly realizes what is to a certain extent, true, that the knowledge that he is in love with one woman will make him less interesting to the other members of the opposite sex.
And so whenever he goes among other women, he either keeps still about his love or openly belittles it as this one does.

To one girl he cynically sings the praises of bachelorhood.
To another he insists that there is really nothing between him and the lady in the case.
Another he flatters by comparing her favorably in some particular with the girl he is supposed to regard as the pink of perfection.

Sometimes he is not to the girl he has won, but more often he is the most devoted and admiring lover and she sometimes wonders when she tells her girl friends how devoted he is, why they don't seem more impressed.

"What would I do if I had a man like that?"
—to return to the lady's question.

I don't know.
I hope I should be strong enough to give him up and wait for a man more worth loving.

But I know things like that are easier to say "I would" about than to do.

Maybe I should keep on loving him and perhaps love him until he settles him into decency.
Here's hoping that that's what you will succeed in doing, little girl.

Of course, it's much harder to do that with pretty little meannesses than real big sins.
But "harder" doesn't mean impossible.
It couldn't be that. For love knows no such word.

"The other day a friend fell dead, all unpremeditated, the undertaker to him speed, and shortly had him buried. And just a day or two before I stood with him and wrangled, we argued politics and swore, and got our theories tangled.

I said the rudest kind of things—I never can forget it; and now that he's equipped with wings, how deeply I regret it! For we were friends for many years, our friendship was unbroken; he left and ringing in his ears were harsh words I had spoken. At last I could not bear his tread, when sunlight gleamed and shadows he comes and stands beside my bed and heaves reproachful glances, it is a streak of fire and smoke, but I am scared already, and says: "My friend, until you speak remorse will be your steady. We stood beside the public dump, and talked of things forgotten; you called me leatherhead and dumpy, and said my brains were rotten. And while I sit upon a cloud with flocks of princely titles, you'll lounge with the worldly crowd, and grief will rend your vitals!" The hearse of misdeeds of men are sad and almost broken, because they can't call back again the unkind words they've spoken. The foolish words in anger hurled may tinge your life with sadness, but kind words never in this world brought anything but gladness.

PLEASED.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
There is perhaps few incidents which have occurred in our city that has so completely captivated the colored citizens of the city and caused such interest; than the appointment by Gov. Shafroth of Judge L. W. Cunningham as a member of the highly respected court of appeals. Judge Cunningham is admired because of his fairness and altruistic dealings and straightforward manner in which he has always treated the citizens of this country regardless of color or previous condition.
The colored citizens of this country who supported Gov. Shafroth for his second election feel he has honored a friend of our race by this appointment.
I congratulate Judge Cunningham upon his appointment of which none other is more worthy, efficient and capable.

IN DEFENSE OF THE POLICE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
As a citizen of Colorado Springs for 20 years, I would like to say in answer to Observer (whoever he or she may be, choosing to hide his identity by so broad a cloak, that I have seen and lived under inefficient as well as efficient police government in this city.

I feel warranted in saying that nine of every ten citizens, who contribute toward maintaining the city government, will sustain me in the assertion that the present police government from commissioner down to patrolman, is one of the best regulated and most efficient this city has had in the above described time.
The fact that their records are open to investigation will verify my assertion.
The noticeable absence of objectionable or corrupt characters from our streets during carnival week, and the fact that the worst hold-ups, robberies or depredations committed in the residence sections is evidence that the city as a whole was free from the element that menaces the police on all such occasions. May I ask to whom belongs the credit—the citizen or the police? Believing a position to hear as well as observe, I know that the well regulated conditions prevalent during the last week were in matter of comment for the stranger who happened to be in our midst.
Verily, he can boast our city morally among his friends in the east.

As the police department being responsible for a horse-becoming frightened, and getting beyond control of the rider, thus running down some one of the thousands congregated near the grandstand on such an occasion, as referred to by Observer, as happening on Cascade avenue, August 1, I consider a weak pretense of police criticism. It being nearly coincidental that the horse did not stampede the grandstand, then the police would have been responsible for not having it removed nearer the sidewalk. Had a man dropped dead from heart failure, the police would have been just as responsible.
I am sure my fellow citizens of this great and progressive city may learn to look upon matters from an unprejudiced and unbiased point of view.
I am,
L. E. SMITH.

THE WOOLEN SCHEDULE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
In view of my letter in The Gazette of Sunday, I have been asked to explain how the high tariff duties were fixed and who was responsible for them. One person wants to know if the consumer, the man who pays the tax, was ever consulted or his interests represented when the rates were fixed.

The story does not make very pleasant reading.
The present rates are about the same as they have been for nearly 70 years, except for a period of about two years, and the infant industries that also nursed by them have grown just the better for it. They are still among the highest in the world, and were caused by the Civil war and it was claimed that they were necessary in order to assist in raising revenue for that great struggle. The wool growers and the woolen manufacturers, the chief beneficiaries of the tax, were allowed to name the rates that the consumers were obliged to pay. The consumer was not consulted, he had no voice in the matter and his interests were not represented.

When these rates were fixed Senator John Sherman of Ohio was a very strong member of the senate. In speaking of the wool schedule he said:

"I trust that in the present tariff the arrangement between the wool growers and the wool manufacturers will be carried out. I would prefer myself to take it in the very words they have given us, so that if they are not satisfied hereafter they cannot complain of the proper committee of congress of any mistakes. I would take them at their word; I think their demand is a reasonable one, and I would be willing to give it to them as they ask it, so that if there is anything wrong in the practical working of the schedule, they themselves may have the responsibility of it. I know, that there was a very important class of people not consulted when this arrangement was made. That is true, the consumers were not consulted, and the consumers have to pay the increased cost.

You see that the wool growers and the woolen manufacturers fixed the rates. They were given what they asked, and if they were not satisfied it was their own fault. You also see that the consumers were not consulted and that they had to pay the increased cost. These rates were practically the same as the rates in the English Act, and those rates were not disturbed in the Payne Aldrich act. This is the reason given by the president.

You may remember that the president once went to Winona, Minn., to assist Congressman Tamm to return to congress and that he made an important speech there. The speech was so important that it made Winona famous. The speech was that Winona had been won to Milwaukee. In speaking of this wool schedule, the president said:

With respect to the wool schedule, I agree that it is too high and that it ought to have been reduced, and that it probably represents considerably more than the difference between the cost of production abroad and the cost of production here. When it came to the question of reducing the duty at this hearing in this tariff bill on wool, Mr. Payne in the house, and Mr. Aldrich in the senate, although both favored reduction in the schedule, found that in the Republican party the interests of the wool growers of the far west and the interests of the woolen manufacturers in the east and in other states, reflected through their representatives in congress, was sufficiently strong to defeat any attempt to change the woolen tariff, and that had it been attempted it would have created the bill, reported from either committee.

The president is a somewhat dolly soul and dearly loves a joke, but he was not joking when he said that the wool growers and the woolen manufacturers had so many representatives in congress that they could continue these indefensible and outrageous taxes on the people. Now, think of the woolen manufacturers and the wool growers having their interests reflected in congress. You probably thought congressmen represented the whole people and that their duty was to enact laws for the beneficial government of the whole people. Now you see how the woolen tax graft was fixed on you and how it has been kept there.

WASH DAY AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Mistress Abigail Adams Was Not Averse to Drying Laundry in Famous "East Room."

From "Strange Stories of the White House," by Catherine Frances Caynau, in the July Bookman.
It is doubtful if any woman familiar with the lives of the mistresses of the White House ever entered the east room without recalling visions—sordid ones—of the time when Mrs. Abigail Adams, had the laundry dried in the big room. Many momentous events have transpired there—the social history of the mansion is replete with them and official history has written them down from weddings and funerals of presidents; but standing out sharply from the story of these changes in sentiment as in other things, and descendants of some of the time when Mrs. Abigail Adams hung her wash in the place,
and the time when dear Mistress Dolly Madison, aided by some gentleman there at the time, had the full length painting of Washington taken down from the east room wall and secreted where the invading British could not find it, as they were then engaged in burning everything which was of value in the infant capital. These things may change in sentiment as in other things, and descendants of some of the time when Mrs. Abigail Adams hung her wash in the place,
and the time when dear Mistress Dolly Madison, aided by some gentleman
there at the time, had the full length
painting of Washington taken down
from the east room wall and secreted
where the invading British could not find it, as they were then engaged in
burning everything which was of value
in the infant capital. These things
may change in sentiment as in other things, and descendants of some of the time when Mrs. Abigail Adams hung her wash in the place,

The story has been told that a banquet was in preparation at the White house on that August 24th, when the British, after the battle of Bladenburg, had a few miles northeast of the city—entered Washington, and that President and Mrs. Madison and all the official household fled to Virginia, leaving a good dinner for the coming of the invaders. One of the British present has vouched for this story in his reminiscences, but it has been denied by some of the White house attaches of that day. Some are inclined to believe that it was just one of Mistress Dolly's whimsical moods that she gloried in; for it has been said by some delicate gentleman who thought Misses Madison too burlesque, in appearance and taste, that her dinners were more like harvest suppers for hard-working men that repasts for ladies and gentlemen. It was a social sin which thousands forgave generous Mistress Madison, and even her spirit —could it return—would have fainted at sight of invited crowds turned away thirsted and unrefreshed, even by a glass of lemonade, in some subsequent administrations.

An old lady who used to move in Washington society in administrations stretching from Polk's to Lincoln's stated to the writer, several years ago:
"I never ate ice cream but I don't think of Mistress Dolly Madison. My mother told me that the first time ice cream appeared in Washington was when Dolly Madison was in the White house.
She gave a garden party and introduced the ice cream to the guests. The ladies took to it quite naturally, not so the gentlemen. Some of them put it in the sun to get warm, and those who forsok the punch-bowl and the mint julep jugs for the novelty returned to their first favorites with extra ardor. Some gentlemen even took whisky straight. I believe they complained of colic!"

"And," she went on, "speaking about colic, reminds me that President Zachary Taylor caught 'the colic' and though colic or to be more correct, cholera morbus. I remember the occasion well for I was present at the dedication of the Washington monument, which took place July 4, 1850, and it was there that President Taylor, who attended, drank so copiously of ice water. The day was fearfully hot—you know how blazing hot it can be down on the monument grounds? Well, do you know that old warrior didn't drink any water, but he drank beer, and drank all that ice water—pump water would not have hurt him—and, after going through the heat to the White house, made a lunch of feed milk and cherries. He was shortly afterward attacked with cholera morbus, which took the form of typhoid fever later, and in five days he was dead. When it became known that our president had cholera morbus many of our citizens sent home and other remedies to the White house. But when the used, so his death could not be attributed to the much physic. But among the cures was one which a man said he was going to patent, also claimed that it was a sure cure. Of course they would not use that either. But the strange thing about it is that very soon after that remedy became popular and even reputable physicians used it for colic."

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 9, 1881.
Colorado silver mines were said to have paid $982,000 in dividends during the past six months.

Hazel Kirke, then one of the latest plays, was given at the Opera house with the original New York cast.
Ernie Ellsler played the leading part.

The state fireman's tournament was held here and was most successful.
The track was on Nevada avenue between Kiowa and Huerfano streets.

The first event was the hook and ladder race in which the teams were to run 500 feet, raise a one-foot ladder and one man ascend to the top. Two teams were entered, the local team and one from Denver. The latter won in 25.45 seconds. The second event was the "wet test" for the hose companies in which the teams were to run 500 feet to a hydrant, make connection, uncoil 200 feet of hose, break coupling and attach nozzle, time to be called when water issued from the nozzle.
This was the principal event of the tournament. There were 10 teams entered from Denver, Trinidad, Leadville, Pueblo and Silver Cliff, as well as local teams. The McAuleys of Silver Cliff won the first prize and the championship belt, their time was 34 seconds. The last event of the day was a 500-foot straightaway race for hook and ladder teams which was won by the Denver organization in 24 seconds.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

August 9, 1891.
The county commissioners went up Pikes Peak and on their return from the summit, inspected a Beaver creek pipe line and the Lake Moraine dam.

The Ute Pass Paint company was organized with Ward Hunt, president; A. L. Humphrey, vice president; J. P.
Glasser, secretary, and H. S. Worcester, general manager. J. B. Wheeler of Manitou was one of the directors.

W. H. Gowdy, still a resident of Colorado Springs, was notified that he had been appointed postmaster at Pre-mont, a new town in the Cripple Creek district.

Seven Famous Sayings

History has always attached much importance to the Number Seven. "Of all numbers there is no one which commanded, in a higher degree, the esteem and reverence of mankind." The Gazette has taken this charmed number, and has woven into stories on a variety of subjects a Series of Sevens, beginning each Monday and continuing during the week.

NO. 3 BIAS.

The third of the seven famous sayings of Greece was Bias, whose chief credit is that of being a practical philosopher.
He was born at Priene, in Ionia, about B. C. 570; the son of Teutamius. Bias, from a very early age, began a close study of the laws of his country, and he later expressed his knowledge in the service of his friends, defending them in the courts of justice and in other ways settling their disputes.

Bias made a noble use of his wealth.
His advice that the Ionians should fly before the victorious Cyrus to Sardinia, was not followed, and the victory of the army of Cyrus confirmed the correctness of his opinion. The inhabitants of Priene, when besieged by Mazares, resolved to abandon the city with their property. On this occasion Bias replied to one of his followers in this wise: "I have expressed my opinion that he made no preparation for his departure, 'I carry everything with me.' He remained in his native country, where he died at a very advanced age. His countrymen buried him with splendor, and honored his memory.
Some of his apothegms are still preserved.

Bias was one of the most eloquent speakers in his time, and is celebrated as having never used his talents for purposes of mere gain, but instead devoted them to the service of the interest and happiness of his countrymen. Many stories are told illustrative of the nobility of his character in this and other respects.
The death of Bias, it is related, occurred in the following manner: Having pleaded a cause for some one, when he was exceedingly old, after he had finished speaking he leaned back with his head on the bosom of his daughter's son, and after the advocate on the opposite side had spoken, and the judges had given their decision in favor of Bias' client, when he felt his breath up he was found dead on his couch, surrounded by his friends.
His fellow citizens honored him with a splendid funeral, and dedicated to him a sanctuary which they called Teutamium.

and kindred complaints. I often heard people say that perhaps if it had been tried for President Taylor he might have recovered."

A CITY OF ROME'S GRANDEUR

Washington Letter to Philadelphia Ledger.

"Washington will in a few years be surrounded by villas, as is every other capital of the world," said George H.
Earle, Jr. in discussing his plan to build a villa on his estate near here.
"There are no more beautiful places in the world than many on the outskirts of the nation's capital, yet the rich who come here fail to take advantage of these natural beauties. I can foresee the creation of villas on the Maryland and Virginia shores within the next 15 years, which will eclipse the grandeur of ancient Rome.

There is an improved sentiment in commercial and industrial channels even though actual confidence is slow to come. The general confidence in the future, and the subdued agricultural prospects generally constitute the best features of the situation."

ORIGINAL BURNS MANUSCRIPT FOUND

From the London Chronicle.

A manuscript found in the possession of a resident of Wanganui, in the north of New Zealand, has been proved by the curator of the Burns museum at Aberdeen to be either the original, or a copy

Some years ago the A.M. museum purchased a replica of the original manuscript (of which Robert Burns was known to have made several) for $1,500. It is probable the manuscript will be sent to England or Scotland.

From Jaffrey, N. H., comes the story of a cold man going on which the lid of the tea Kettle was found frozen on, even while there was a fire in the stove.
